

The Meaning of Life

*The search begins before we are aware of
the void that dwells deep within us.*

*As days slip by, the void continues to grow.
As years carry on, the heart grows cold.*

*The search becomes a way of life
that ensnares us with foolish pleasures.*

*As days slip by, our search becomes stronger.
As years carry on, our search becomes longer.*

The void grows colder, the search grows stronger.

Until we allow the touch of the one who loves us – Jesus Christ!

*The search becomes a reality, the heart
Receives new life, the void a resting place.*

*The search begins before we are aware of
the void that dwells deep within us.*

*As days slip by, the void continues to grow.
As years carry on, our Lord continues to show.*

HE becomes the way of life that leads us to everlasting peace.

- CW Seymore "The Meaning of Life" Bending Light. International Library of Poetry. 2001